Brady's Energy Reporting Repository for ETRM

Unlocking your data

BRADY.

While Brady ETRM is at the heart for our software solutions for energy deal capture, pan-European energy balancing, real-time pricing, reporting and scheduling portfolio, we offer a comprehensive package of optional add-on modules and services to fit your needs and expand your business capabilities.

Brady's Energy Reporting Repository (ERR) is an add on module for Brady ETRM that allows you to collect, aggregate and share your high value risk and trade information, giving you the insight, transparency and control you need to make informed decisions.

Making life simple

Brady's ERR unlocks your data and enables you to create, schedule and automate delivery of standardised reports within Microsoft Power BI, an industry and marketing leading Business Intelligence (BI) tool. We turn your data into information, giving you quick and efficient access to reports that are scalable and easy to use.

How does it work?

With Brady ERR your data is automatically uploaded and synchronised into a new reporting database configured with pre-defined dashboard that give you a view into the Brady ETRM logical data model. This allows you to set up your entire daily workflow and ensure your data is always up to date.

Users can access the data contained in Brady ERR via the system's Power BI front end, drill down on data in existing reports or produce new reports that impress. Existing reports are customisable and simple to share with others and everything that is modified is tracked in a clear and easy to use audit trail. Updates to Brady ERRs Power BI component are scheduled and automated so you can rest assured that it's always current.
